

Jason Obawemimo

Founder, Apohenia. Co-owner and operator, Triple J Auto Investment. Systems, operations and go-to-market for small businesses.

Founder of Apohenia, the compliance layer for Texas car deals, and co-owner of Triple J Auto Investment in Houston. I build the systems underneath a business and then run them, so the work has to hold up on a Tuesday, not in a deck.

EXPERIENCE

Founder

SEP 2024 - PRESENT

Apohenia, Pearland, TX (apohenia.com). Also client sites and systems for service businesses.

- Founded Apohenia to build the control layer between a constructed car deal and a clean county submission. First product: Deal Packet Checker, a packet-readiness review that checks a Texas dealer’s deal jacket against current webDEALER requirements before filing.
- Designed it around a compliance graph: versioned rules for documents, jurisdictions, parties, title states, liens, deadlines and signatures, with deterministic verdicts and a human title clerk on every decision.
- Set the claims boundary and the evidence plan: findings reported as prevalence, no effectiveness claims until preregistered outcome data exists, dogfooded on Triple J’s own packets first.
- Run founder-led go-to-market and ship the stack myself: discovery interviews, synthetic-packet demos, conditional pilots; Supabase, PostgreSQL, Vercel, Claude and Codex agent workflows, MCP, written down as SOPs.

Co-Owner and Operator

AUG 2024 - PRESENT

Triple J Auto Investment, Houston, TX (thetripjauto.com)

- Run a used-vehicle dealership with in-house financing: pricing, customer intake, scheduling, payments, follow-up, and the title and registration workload.
- Negotiate pricing and financing under real margin pressure while keeping the customer relationship intact.
- Moved intake, follow-up and reporting onto written scripts, and built the bilingual site with inventory, pre-qualification and lead capture.
